Live Stock Commission.

The state live stock sanitary commis sion, composed of Keenan Hurst, James White, and Charles Collins made a report to the governor. In regard to the letters and petitions from the southern part of the state referring to the removal of the cattle quarantine line farther south, and to ased pasture lands in the Indian territory, all of which the commission have carefully considered, they come to the following conclusion:

"That it would be unwise and unsafe to move the quarantine line farther south, for the reason that it has been demonstrated in the last two or three years that cattle raised in the south part of the territory described, when brought into the state have communicated fever to native cattle. In 1890, cattle that were raised forty-five miles south of Cogeyville caused an outbreak of fever in Franklin county, Kansas; and in 1891 cattle that were raised twenty miles south of Baxter Springs, and wintered the previous winter not more than six miles south of Caney, in the Indian territory, caused Texas fever in Greenwood county, Kansas.

"In view of these facts, and believing that the line of infected territory is gradually moving north, although the present quarantine line does work a hardship on parties living on or near the south line of the state, the same would be true of a line established elsewhere. We would, therefore, most earnestly recommend that the present quarantine line be maintained.

"In regard to leased pastures in the Indian territory, it has been the custom to bring cattle from the infected areas and fill the pastures with wild and undomesticated cattle, and with insufficient fence, thereby endangering state cattle by breaking through fences and causing great loss to farmers and stockmen. We believe that no one has the legal right to endanger the rights of others. think that if such leases are to be renewed, or continued, all parties before placing such cattle in pastures near to or adjoining the state of Kansas, should be required to put up and maintain a good and sufficient fence on the north line of such pastures."

The above findings were submitted to Governor Humphrey, asking him to transmit it to Secretary Noble, with such recommendations as he should deem proper.

Asylum Notes.

The report which has been going the rounds in this state that the grip had become epidemic at the state insane asy-lum has no foundation in fact. There have been several cases, but not so many as occurred last year. There have been no fatalities. The disease has been more prevalent among employes in proportion to their number than among the patients. The general health of the in-stitut n is good, there being no cases of acute sickness.

There are now 762 patients being cared for-the greatest number at any one time in the history of the asylum. The estimated capacity is for 725 patients.

Since July 1 there have been 128 persons admitted and ninety-five discharged. The number of recoveries in that time have been thirty-nine.
Since January 1 of the present year, twenty applications for admittence have been refused. Since February 1 there have been thirty-four applications filed. Extraordinary precautions have been taken to avoid scarlet fever and other contagious diseases. During the session of the Teachers' association in this city between five and six hundred persons were shown through the wards.

One hundred and thirty gallons of tea and coffee are used daily. Four barrels of kraut are eaten each week, and each day three barrels of potatoes are consumed by the patients.

A little over 800 pounds of flour are baked every day, and Sunday mornings, generally, 2,000 eggs are served. At breakfast 175 pounds of steak are Superintendent Winans' office has completed the work of figuring out the proper apportionment of the permanent school fund to the various counties of the state. The total amount to be distributed this year is $263,421.66, and the school population of the state is 497,022, thus allowing a per capita of 53 cents. Nine counties have 10,000 or more of school population. They are: Shawnee, 17,053; Wyandotte, 16,820; Sedgwick, 13,404; Leavenworth, 12,427; Cowley, 11,459; Crawford, 11,312; Sum-10,784; Cherokee, 10,263, and Bourbon, 10,233. The lowest counties are: Morton, 183, and Garfield, 223. The warrants will be sent out the last of Attorney General Ives gave an opinion to Governor Humphrey regarding counties that have fallen below the number of inhabitants required for their organization. It was to the effect that on a county which formerly had 30,-000 inhabitants, and there had been jury missioners appointed for the county, and then the population from any cause has decreased to less than 30,000, the governor has no authority to appoint new jury commissioners at the expiration of the term of the present commisers until the county fills up again to 30,000, and that the office terminates at the expiration of the term for which the present commissioners were appointed.

FIFTY-SECOND CONGRESS

The house, on suspension of the rales, adopted Mr. Hatch's resolution requiring the committee on agriculture to inquire and report as to the effect upon agriculture of the precent tariff isw. The house passed the bill which provides that all promotions in the several lines of artillery, cavalry and infantry, up to the grade of Colonel, shall be by seniority in the next lower grades, according to the original entry into the regular sevice as a commissioned officer.

Mr. Davis, of Kansas, introduced several bills, among them one prohibiting the use of free railroad passes, or of telegraph franks, by members of congress or by federal judges; such officers to certify that they have not used either when drawing their salaries; or, in the absence of such certificates, their salaries become forfeited.

Another of Mr. Davis' bills provides for the issue of $50,000,000 fractional notes; another reduces the life of a patent from seventeen to seven years: another is simed at the regulation of interstate commerce.

Mr. Broderick, of Kansas, has introduced a bill to increase the amount of silver bullion to be purchased by the treasury from 4,500,000 ounces a month to 6,000,000 ounces; preference to be given to American products.

The senate finished and passed the urgent deficiency bill. It adds to the $300,000 deficiency for the census $50,000 for the division of farms, homes and mortgages. Senator Peffer advocated making the item $100,000.

The Idaho contest was taken up in the senate but no action was had.

The house, after a struggle between the friends and opponents of free coinage of silver, confined to the majority party, which left the way block-aded and any immediate approach to the question prevented, proceeded to consider the bill to permit railroads to give reduced rates to commercial travelers. But this was dropped to resume debate over the senate resolution appropriating funds to convey domated food to Russia. After much time spent in filibustering, led by Mr. Tracy, of New York, whose object was to stave off

The nouse in committee of the whole reached the Indian appropriation bill. A dispute arose over the limit to be allowed in debate. It was agreed in the Indian affairs committee that the debate be restricted to the smallest possible compass; but after much desultory talk about it the discussion began with no limitation ordered. The senate spent some time on the contest case from Idaho but took no action before adjourning.

On the day set apart for the memorial in honor of the late Senator Plumb, addresses were made by Senators Peffer, Dolph, Perkins, Allison, Cockrell, Turpie, Daniel, Walthall, Morrill, Chandler and Hale. Senator Peffer's was the first and the leading address.

Senatof Palmer, of Illinois, made his first speech in the serate on the resolution introduced by himself, which provides for the submission of a constitutional amendment requiring that United States senators be elected by direct vote of the people of the various states, instead of by the state legislatures, as at present.

Senator Mitchell stated that the sub-committee of the committee on privileges and elections.

the state legislatures, as at present.

Senator Mitchell stated that the sub-committee of the committee on privileges and elections, to whom this and other like resolutions were referred, had agreed to report in favor of such an amendment to the constitution.

In the house, during the course of debate incommittee of the whole, Mr. Roland denounced strongly the conduct of Mr. Harter in sending a circular letter to G. A. R. posts advising the pensioners to use their influence against the free silver coinage bill. He denounced it as unfair and unbecoming the dignity of a member.

Mr. Harter admitted the authorship of the circular letter, and was as much opposed to giving silver bullion producers the earnings of the people as he was to giving them to the manufacturers. If a free coinage bill were passed, it would elect Harrison for a second term, and this would be done by the democratic house, under the leadership of the gentleman from Missouri. If anything he said, should be made legal tender it should be made the corn of Kansas and not the silver of Colorado.

Mr. Clover, of Kansas, has a bill in providing that any state may issue its bonds to the limit of 15 per cent of the assessed valuation of the state, bearing 2% per cent interest. That the United States shall take these bonds and issue therefor legal tender treasury notes for their face. That the states shall use these notes for purchase or construction of railroads and waterways, to be operated by the state so as to fetch a profit not to exceed 4 per cent of cost. That the surplus profit, after paying 2% per cent interest to the United States, shall go into the treasury of the state.
